

I have been a victim of a crime. What happens next?

If your initial report is made immediately following an incident, a uniform officer is dispatched to the scene or location of the incident. The responding officer will make a determination what sort of follow-up action is required.